

Ulrich Beck
Lifetime Achievement Award –
For Most Distinguished Contribution to Futures Research
(Research Committee on Futures Research, International Sociological Association)

The winners of the quadrennial Inaugural Lifetime Achievement Awards were announced at the XVIII ISA World Congress of Sociology, 13-19 July 2014 in Yokohama, Japan.

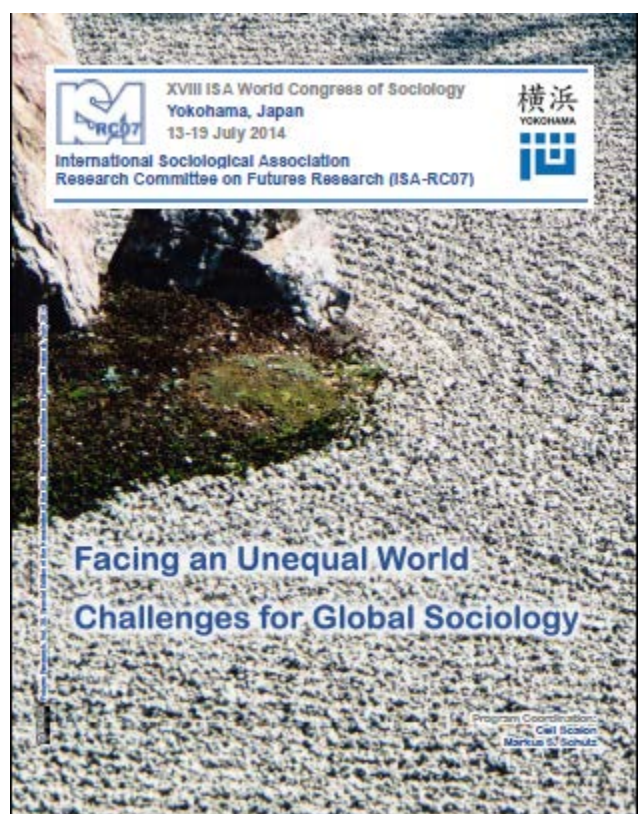

Ulrich Beck (London School of Economics / LMU Munich)

Wendell Bell (Yale University, USA)

Fernando Henrique Cardoso (Brazil)

Eleonora Barbieri Masini (Rome, Italy)

Johan Galtung (Sweden)

Tuesday, 15 July 2014, 7:30PM-8:50PM
Room: F205

10. The Sociology of Ulrich Beck

Special Session

Organizers: ISARC07 Executive Board and Senior Award Committee

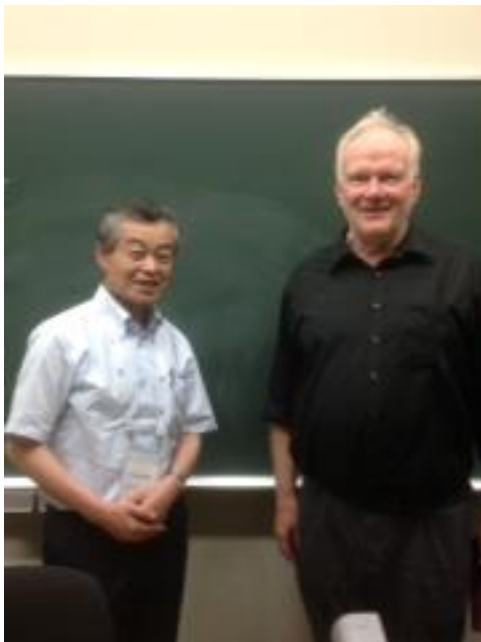

Lifetime Achievement Award for Distinguished Contribution to Futures Research

Ulrich BECK, Ludwig Maximilian University, Germany & London School of Economics, UK

Towards a Cosmopolitan Turn: Reinventing Sociology for the 21st Century
(Acceptance Speech)

Ulrich Beck (London School of Economics, UK, and LMU, Germany) is the first recipient of the RC07 Lifetime Achievement Award for Most Distinguished Contribution to Futures Research. Beck presented his acceptance speech “Towards a Cosmopolitan Turn: Reinventing Sociology for the 21st Century” to a fully packed auditorium in the Yokohama Pacifico Congress Center.

Photos: Courtesy of Prof. Dr. Surichai Wungao, Chulalongkorn University, Bangkok, Thailand